School of Survival

Habilitat has long been recognized as one of the nations foremost residential substance abuse treatment programs. We have developed techniques for creating the qualities lacking in many peoples character: self-esteem, self-worth and self-discipline. Habilitat strengthens your character, mind and body. We believe the fastest way to take ones dignity is to do something for them that they can do for themselves. We teach individuals how to be self-reliant and responsible members of society.

Health & Wellness

Our holistic approach to recovery focuses on the mind, body and spirit. We have an integrated fitness program that includes an on site weight room and aerobics center. Participants can get involved in a variety of extracurricular activities including hiking, sailing, boating, biking and jogging. Our medical staff works together with a licensed dietician to ensure nutrition is a priority.

Vocational Training

Habilitat's intensive vocational training programs are perhaps the most comprehensive in the addiction treatment industry. Graduates are not only prepared for society and its emotional demands, they are also prepared to be gainfully employed and enjoy a life of independence.

A variety of occupational training programs are offered including construction, sales and marketing, public relations, landscaping, culinary, administration, admission, accounting and medical. 100% of Habilitat's graduates are employed upon graduation.

Habilitat's treatment facility is an oceanfront estate that sits on Kaneohe bay at the base of the Ko'olau Mountains. The tranquil views and cooling Hawaiian trade winds create an ideal atmosphere for recovery. Our facility includes; School room, Game room, Jacuzzi, Library, Boats, Private pier, The "cozy corner" lounge, On site barber shop, A state of the art aerobics studio, Basketball and volleyball court and Fitness center with sauna.

Facility

Treatment

The Treatment Phase is highly structured and participants are closely supervised and evaluated. Each participant is immersed in a new lifestyle based on common sense, hard work and family values. Education is emphasized and anyone without a high school diploma is enrolled in school. Each participant is placed in a fitness program and offered classes three days a week. Treatment is designed to simulate the usual diversities of life and teach people how to use new coping skills to navigate problems resourcefully. Evidence based practices are employed to help people overcome obstacles. Pro-social interactions are encouraged, which eventually create a strong foundation for which to build a new, more successful, life.

Re-Entry

In the Re-entry Phase, participants make gradual adjustments from the highly structured Treatment Phase to new levels of accountability and increased self-initiative. Participants are encouraged to take on new responsibilities, all of which are rewarded with higher levels of privilege. New obstacles arise as participants learn to balance vocational training, community responsibility and self-care. They practice being responsible and accountable adults in an environment that gives them the emotional support necessary to learn this new lifestyle. In this phase, participants are given the opportunity to learn a marketable skill, open a bank account, and formulate a budget.

Post Re-Entry

The final phase of the program is Post Re-entry. During this period, participants develop a strategy for transitioning back into the community. They have more freedom, increased interaction with the community and attend social functions. Participants are assisted with resume development, mock job interviews and employment application skills. This gradual transition into the community increases their chances for long-term success. Having a GED or high school diploma, a job and a place to live are requirements for completion of this phase.
